

THE INSTITUTE of TURKISH STUDIES

NATIONAL ELECTIONS IN TURKEY: HERE WE GO AGAIN?

Dr. F. Michael Wuthrich

Director of the Global & International Studies Program at the University of Kansas

Thursday,
October 29
4:30-5:00 PM
McGhee Library
(ICC 301)
Georgetown University

This talk discusses the critical upcoming elections in Turkey in light of the “ghosts of elections past,” the forces, patterns and people that will be before and after November 1st when the citizens of Turkey go once again to the polls help us make sense of what we will see.

F. Michael Wuthrich is Assistant Professor and Director of the Global & International Studies Program at KU. He received his PhD in Political Science from Bilkent University in Ankara, Turkey in 2011. Dr. Wuthrich lived and worked in Turkey for 9 years. His publications have appeared in the International Journal of Middle East Studies, Middle East Journal, and Turkish Studies, among others. His book National Elections in Turkey: People, Politics, and the Party System was released from Syracuse University Press in August 2015.

Light Snacks will be served

RSVP AT MICHAELWUTHRICH.EVENTBRITE.COM

