Prof. Mark L. Stein is a Professor of History at Muhlenberg College. He received his BA in History in 1984 and his MA and PhD degrees in History at University of Chicago in 2001. His teaching fields are Middle East history, Mediterranean history and Balkan history.

As an historian of the Middle East, Prof. Stein teaches a wide variety of courses focused on that world region. In addition to broad survey courses he offers upper-level courses on topics such as the Arab-Israeli Conflict, the Mongols, Women in the Middle East, and the Ottoman Empire.

His training as an historian was in the social and economic history of the Ottoman Empire, and his first book, “The Ottoman Empire, France, and Austria-Hungary,” was a study of seventeenth-century Ottoman administration of that empire’s frontier with the Habsburgs in Hungary. His current research builds on that topic, to consider more widely the social, economic, political, and military aspects of the Ottoman-Habsburg frontier. He is also interested in the broader questions of frontier history, particularly when placed in a comparative framework.

Prof. Stein was supported with the following grants:

- Dissertation Writing Grant, 1991-1992
- Summer Travel Grant, 2008-2009.
